Optional Session:  NOAA Legends

Date:        Monday, July 28, 2008
Time:        8:00pm – 9:00pm
Location:    Federal Room
Presenter:   Marc Young, NOAA’s Chief Learning Officer

Description: For as long as people have lived in communities, stories have been an important way for us to transmit identity and meaning. Even today, the stories people tell each other in organizations help to shape and communicate our values. The goal of this session is to share some of the stories that make up the informal oral history of NOAA, and then to consider what they reveal about who we are and what truly matters to us as an organization. Come prepared to tell your favorite NOAA story, to listen to others, or just to laugh.
